Research Experiences

Research on 3D computer vision and computer graphics

I'm exploring how to reconstruct a deforming object from partial RGB-D scans.

Mentor: Prof. Qixing Huang

June. 2023 - Present

Research on computer vision

Guided by Prof. Chenyang Lei, I'm exploring a novel approach to automatic image colorization given black-and-white images by imitating the imagination process of human experts.

Mentor: Prof. Qifeng Chen

March. 2023 - Present

Research on 3D reconstruction and novel view synthesis

Guided by Sida Peng and Bojian Wu, I am exploring how to accurately reconstruct the geometry and generate high-quality novel view images of refractive and reflective objects(e.g. transparent objects) by making use of neural implicit 3D representations and differentiable rendering.

Mentor: Prof. Xiaowei Zhou

Oct. 2022 - Feb. 2023

Research on Autonomous Driving: Detection and Tracking of Millimeter Wave Radar

Advised by Prof. Rong Xiong and Prof. Yue Wang, I have finished the Deep Scientific Research Training Program of Chu Kochen Honors College on "Detection and Tracking of Millimeter Wave Radar", which is awarded as excellent (10 in total). The project focused on exploring how to combine vision sensors(RGB camera) and millimeter-wave radars to increase the accuracy of object detection.

Mentor: Prof. Rong Xiong

Feb. 2022 - June. 2022

Research on Deep Learning: Cross-domain Performance Evaluation Method

Advised by Prof. Jiang Wei, I am participating in a Student Research Training Program(SRTP) on "Cross-domain performance evaluation method of pedestrian re-identification model based on model parameter distribution", focusing on exploring the relationship between data domain(original & target) and model parameters, realizing online evaluation of model performance, and laying a foundation for the further online model update.
